

Triad Advisors, LLC Personal Information Notice for California Residents

What is this Notice?

The California legislature recently enacted the California Consumer Privacy Act of 2018 (“CCPA”) – a law that relates to personal information about California residents. This Notice is provided on behalf of Triad Advisors, LLC to advise you of types of personal information that Triad Advisors may collect about you that may be covered by the CCPA and the purposes for which we collect such information.

We are providing this notice broadly to California residents as a courtesy, and in light of the CCPA’s new requirements. However, only limited personal information Triad Advisors collects is covered by the CCPA in light of our business and the Act’s exceptions. For instance, information collected, processed, sold, or disclosed pursuant to the federal Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act and implementing regulations, and the California Financial Information Privacy Act, is exempted from nearly all provisions of the CCPA, including the rights of access, deletion, and opt out. As a general matter, those laws apply to nonpublic personal information about individuals who obtain financial products or services from us primarily for personal, family, or household purposes.
